Half day tour Ahu Akivi

Tour to Puna Pau, a quarry on the hills of Rano Kau, where pukaos were manufactured, hats worn by the moais and made of red volcanic ash. Visit Ahu Akivi, an altar consisting of the only 7 moais whose eyes are fixed on the sunset over the ocean

Half day tour Orongo

Tour to Rano Kau, a dormant volcano located on the southwestern tip of the island. Inside the volcano there is a lake with abundant vegetation. Visit Ahu Vinapu, with one of the oldest moai on the island. We continue to the village and ceremonial temple of Orongo, where annual competitions were held to elect the chief of the island, the Tangata Manu (birdman).

Full day tour Rano Raraku & Anakena Beach

Visit the East coast of the island, starting towards the temple of Akahanga, the extinct volcano Rano Raraku and the quarry where the moai were made. Enjoy lunch, picnic style. Ahu Tongariki is the largest in Polynesia, with 15 restored statues. The tour continues with a visit to Te Pito Kura, where a destroyed platform contains the largest moai on Easter Island, currently lying on the ground. On one side of this ahu there is a large round stone known as the Energy Rock for its special magnetism. After visiting the last platform of Ahu Nau Nau, we finish our mystical journey in the beautiful Anakena beach

Tera ai Restaurant

Live the unique experience of ancestral Rapa Nui ceremony with live music. The delight of the gastronomic fusion between the Umu, ancestral food and the delights of our kitchen arranged in our dining room, invite you to enjoy a wonderful dinner. At the end of the experience we will enjoy the history through music and dance with an unforgettable interactive show.

Marble Caves - Rio Tranquilo Town

Puerto Río Tranquilo serves mostly as a base for boat tours to the Capillas de Mármol, a network of marble pillars near the shores of General Carrera. The sleek lines of the deep white crevices at the base of these giant pillars are the result of thousands of years of erosion. When contrasted with the blue and turquoise waters of the lake, these crevices shine brightly iridescent, lending an otherworldly quality to an already stunning geological formation. Be sure to take plenty of photos when you tour these caves because they're guaranteed to impress.

San Rafael Lagoon-Glacier

Laguna San Rafael is a pro-glacial lake connected with the sea by the Tempanos (icebergs) river. The lagoon (actually a large sea water lake) measures 15kms north to south and approximately 10 kms east to west. Maximum depth is around 200m in a trough quite close to the face of the glacier. Despite the huge input of water from the ice and numerous streams flowing into the lagoon the water is salty because of the influx of sea water up the river due to the tides.

Navigation to Magdalena Island, Penguin colony

Early in the morning we start with this unparalleled adventure, after checking in at our office, we head to Laredo Bay to board speedboats, we navigate 45 minutes to Magdalena Island, where we stay for 1 hour with our guide to know the natural habitat of the Magellanic Penguins in the largest colony of South America. We continue our journey to Isla Marta to see sea lions, imperial cormorants and hundreds of southern gulls. Then we return to the pier and to Punta Arenas.

Full day tour Torres del Paine National Park

Torres del Paine National Park, enjoying the view of the Sofía Lagoon, Porteño Lake, Prat Mountain Range, Mesa Hill, Toro Range and Ballena Range. After a 2 hours trip, we will arrive in the Lago del Toro viewpoint, located in the lake's south coast. From there, we will have a spectacular view of the lake and the Paine Range (also known as Paine Massif). Then, we will make a small hike by the Grey Lake's shore, from where we will have another perspective of the Paine Massif and the Cuernos del Paine.

Full day tour trekking Base Torres

After an hour and a half trip by van we will arrive at Cerro Paine. From there we will start hiking. To reach the Ascencio Valley you will climb to the Paso de los Vientos (Pass of the Wind) to get an amazing view of the pampa, lakes, and Ascencio valley. After that we will retrace the valley, crossing an old Lenga Forest to reach the beginning of a glacial moraine which we will start climbing step by step until we reach the Base Towers. If weather conditions permit you will have a great view of the towers. This without a doubt represents a challenge to anyone that likes hiking.

BALMACEDA AND SERRANO NAVIGATION

This crossing will emulate the one made by Spanish skipper Juan Ladrilleros in 1557, when as a last hope of finding the Strait of Magellan he came across with the glaciers of Balmaceda Mount. We will depart from Puerto Natales, sailing for 3 hours through the fjord toward Balmaceda Mount, located at the Bernardo O'Higgins National Park, the biggest in our country. We will dock at the national park, disembark to do a short walk to see the Serrano Glacier.

Grey glacier Navigation

Departing to Torres del Paine National Park through route Serrano, we will visit the vantage points of Lago del Toro, Los Cuernos and Grey Glacier to continue toward Lake Grey, where we will navigate around the glacier for 3 hours. You will be surrounded by an unrivalled landscape of floating icebergs, lush vegetation and majestic mountains. You will witness up close and personal all the wonder, beauty and magnitude of the ice walls, standing at a height of 20 meters. A true spectacle of nature.
